Self-recognition and discovering yourself is a huge achievement in deciding your future. Discovering yourself helps you gain confidence and you feel easy in making big decisions about your life that help you climb the ladder of success. Exploring yourself helps you recognize yourself and correct your mistakes that you may end up doing in your life.

My name is Muhammad Hassan Khalid and my age is 20 years. I live in Lahore city. I have one big brother and one big sister. I come from a good and kind family background. I come from Islamic backgrounds. I also have a hobby. I adore computer and all the technology related with it. I can sit on computer for many hours. Also, I enjoy spending time on computer but I don't spend all my free time on it like many others. I also spend some time in our household works, repairs and help the family in the daily chores.

In my childhood, I was more of a shy and self-person and didn't liked too much interaction with people. Due to this, I had to face many challenges in my life and lost a lot of my precious time in fighting this fear of interacting with people but as of today I have overcome this fear and now have paved my road to a better future.

I have completed my education doing O-Level and A-Level from Lahore Grammar School and have now become a part of FAST University. I had a lot of good time in my childhood and enjoyed each moment of my school life. The school and college gave me fruitful advice for my life and helped me succeed on the road of life as you get to know the most basic rules of life in your first few years of education and I think that those few years are the most crucial years of your life and help differentiate between who you are and what you will become in a few years of your short life.

I gained a lot of confidence in college, and my character really developed in these 2 years. As, I went to college I got to get out of the house and out of my comfort zone and really explore the world from a new perspective as I got to interact with different people in these years and made a lot of new friends that helped me gain a lot new knowledge which I suspect I couldn't ever get from myself or from spending my time with relatives or family. Hence, I suggest having friends is a big deal in your life.

I like spending time on my computer and help my family with all computer aspects and like teaching people about computer how it is making our lives easier day by day. It is my joy to learn computer skills and become a freelancer and earn myself success from the help of a computer. In my free time I used to give my elders the most basic of knowledge of computer and helped them gain confidence as they after learning didn't felt left behind in their life. It's my passion to earn money for my country and help my nation see the rising era of computer which is going to revolutionize everything in our world and everything in a few years is going to become digital in this world and will be controlled by Artificial Intelligence. I want to see myself as a successful entrepreneur in the next few years and serve my nation.

By getting a degree in Data Science I would be one step closer to my goals. In the next five years I want to learn and grow in this field and try to become a better person. I want to see myself working in a renowned company and earning my success to a successful entrepreneur. I want to start my own software house and help create employment for many others like me and help them succeed on their way of life and provide services to people at economical prices and establish my brand name which will pave my way to my own company and earn a lot of money. With that money I want to build hospitals, charity organizations and help the poor, needy and orphans,

Now, I am a sociable person. I like to get acquainted with new people, communicate in a big company, and participate in disputes. I really like to get the YES and NO's of life and have a keen interest in gaining knowledge of the world and how all the things work in which many aspects come for example like politics, religion, and economy for example. Among my friends. I would call myself a benevolent person, often I help my friends. If I can say that I have learned purposefulness from my father, the same I can admit that my mother taught me to be helpful to people no matter who he is. I was brought up in a middle-class community and I consider all people to be equal. I am a down to earth person and not a show-off. I believe myself not to be better than others but like myself to be put in other shoes and try to understand their situation. By doing so, I really get to know the worldly acts of this world and learn mistakes which I may have made in my life.

Recently, I lost my father from this world due to covid pandemic which really hit me and I had to face a lot of problems. It took me many months to settle down and now my life goal has become to fulfill his dream and get a degree from the university, get a good job, start my own business and become a good person in my life and help all those in need and hope to once meet with him in the afterworld.
